The heat by heat scores show what a close and exciting contest this was. Nottingham were not expected to beat Plymouth and they had led all the way against all predictions. Plymouth were very fortunate to steal the match in the last heat when Chapman and Shelton overdid it under pressure.

Plymouth started the match only two points in front. At the half way mark aggregate scores were level after a hard fought struggle. From there Nottingham pulled steadily away to go through to the next round. In heat 2 Charlie Blacklock had a lucky escape when he fell spectacularly and his bike landed on top of him. He collided with Fred Tate who slowed suddenly with engine trouble. Despite being knocked out he came back to win his five remaining rides.

Wimbledon had lost Wal Phillips who had been injured at Plymouth in The West of England Open Championship 4 days earlier.
 Eric Langton had a difficult meeting. In heat 11 he was hit by Joe Abbott after Eric's bike seized up. Both managed to finish. In heat 13 things got worse when he again fell when on a reserve machine, trying to catch Huxley. This time he injured his shoulder.
 Attendance 25,000.

West Ham were missing Tommy Allott and Palace Nobby Key. In heat 11 Croombs was hit hard from behind by Newton.

Croombs fell badly and was carried off. He came out for his last ride. George Newton was banned from the rest of the match.

In heat 17 Stevenson came down. Farndon ran into his machine dragging it with him. Farndon soon slid off also.

West Ham were so short of riders that the manager Fred Fearnley, a 1928 pioneer, had to put himself down as second reserve.

In heat 3 Francis and Shepherd wore the wrong helmet colours so that some sources show Shepherd as the winner.

Tiger Stevenson took one second off the clutch start record in heat 1. Joe Francis was excluded for boring in heat 9. Neither side was at full strength, Key and Allott still being out with injuries.

West Ham fought very hard to overcome the fourteen points deficit they lost at home.

They came close but never had the aggregate lead and, tiring in the closing stages were held to a draw.

Billy Dallison and Tommy Gamble collided at the start of heat 5 and Gamble came off.

Heat 6 was also a blow against Sheffield's hopes because Eric Blain crossed the white line, having overslid in a strenuous effort to catch Jack Parker. Eric was excluded.

Dusty Haigh was injured in heat 14.

There had been a heavy thunder storm. The track was very slippery and the start had to be delayed half an hour.

Kilmister's heat 9 exclusion was for forcing Blacklock into the fence. These two were vying for best New Zealander and the races between them were worth going a long way to see. Sometimes the rivalry got a little rougher than the rules allowed.

In heat 3 the bikes of Bounds and Shelton became locked together when Shelton fell and his handlebars stuck in Bounds' back wheel. Bounds rode on for a while towing Shelton's bike but was lapped.

Attendance 5,000.

If any evidence were needed that Nottingham were under strength this was it. The crowd lapsed into silence as one

6-1 was followed by another and the Nottingham riders became demoralised. They received very genuine cheers of encouragement from the Wembley fans when occasionally they challenged for a place but it was of little help.

The SCB had tried to assist by allocating Dick Wise and George Greenwood to Nottingham. Wise was not the rider he had been in 1930 due to a number of bad injuries. Greenwood did not sign until August and he did so reluctantly. His excellent knowledge of Wembley would have made at least some of the heats competitive.

In heat 2 George Newton fell off as he approached the line and his bike finished without him.
Colin Watson's exclusion in heat 7 was for causing Harry Shepherd to fall in a passing move on the last bend.
Ron Johnson's bike snaked out of the gate in heat 15 and he ran into the back of Van Praag who finished up under his own machine. Van Praag was out of the match.

The track was rough and far too slick. It turned out to be a disaster for Clapton and Jack Parker who fell in heat 1 and broke his leg. Jack was racing hard with Eric Langton and just overdid it. Bishop, Barrowclough and Westwood also had heavy falls. In heat 7 Langton fell and Bishop laid down but his wheel hit Langton on the back of the neck. Langton also hurt his elbow but turned out again. Belle Vue were still without Bill Kitchen.
