ADVANTAGE Ipswich at the halfway stage of the Premiership Grand Final - and while Witches know all too well the job is far from done just yet, there's no doubt their status as title favourites was very much justified at Beaumont Park on Monday.

The 47-43 victory for the visitors in an intensely-fought first leg means opponents Leicester have it all to do at Foxhall tonight (Thursday), yet the events of Heat 15 did give Lions a glimmer of hope especially as it looked like they could well be heading for a double-digit defeat.

That race saw the otherwise outstanding Emil Sayfutdinov disqualified for bringing down Ryan Douglas, who then edged out Jason Doyle in an intense duel in the re-run to end the night on a 5-1 with Max Fricke.

But that only halved the damage that had been done to the home side by a run of four Ipswich 4-2s in the space of five races prior to that, where the strength-in-depth of the visitors - especially at reserve - played a crucial part.

Dan Thompson may well have expected to take extra rides back at his old stomping ground but that became the case too for Jason Edwards, and both responded in style after their team lost Adam Ellis in his opening ride.

Ellis had already been involved in an exciting first lap of Heat 3, divebombing Douglas and Kyle Howarth into turn three before losing out to the Lions pair as he over-slid, and next time around he didn't make it past that section of track at all as he came down heavily.

With Douglas and Howarth well ahead of Tom Brennan, and the red lights not coming on until the leader had entered lap three, SCB referee Graeme Hunter was perfectly correct to award the home side a 5-1 in a textbook interpretation of the regulations, and it was the first advantage of the meeting.

What was more surprising was that Leicester completely failed to build on that result, as they conceded 5-1s in the next two races.

Thompson, who had relieved brother Joe of third place in Heat 2, took a big scalp of Sam Masters in the fourth with Doyle out-front, and then Danny King - a distant last in Heat 1 - wound himself up for a superb first lap effort against Douglas and Howarth, and was joined by Sayfutdinov, who went inside Douglas for a second Witches maximum in the next.

The Ipswich No. 1 had already stated his intent with a Heat 1 win from the outside over Fricke and the Lions' captain had to be strong on Doyle in Heat 6 to grab his first win of the night with the Witches rider re-passing Luke Becker around the outside.

Masters held off a hard-charging Brennan in Heat 7 and Becker gave the home side another win in the next, both races being shared, before some controversy in Heat 9 as Dan Thompson went down in a very tight first bend, with Witches frustrated to see him disqualified.

Doyle again had to come from the back to prevent a Lions 5-1 in the re-run, overcoming Howarth before just failing to get on terms with Douglas whose race win brought it back level at 27-27.

What may prove to be the decisive moments of the Final followed, with Ipswich hugely impressive as Brennan never gave Fricke a chance as he stormed clear in Heat 10, and Edwards just as importantly held third place over Becker.

King came down on the outside heading into turn one of Heat 11, with the decision being all four back on this occasion, and while Leicester had gated well first time, the re-run saw Drew Kemp come to a halt in a cloud of smoke as Masters went inside King to salvage second place.

Witches' determination was clear to see again in Heat 12 as Lions entered the first turn on a 5-1, only for Brennan and Thompson to go inside Kemp before Brennan built speed and drove hard inside Douglas on lap two for another win.

And then Sayfutdinov topped that with a stunning Heat 13 effort, getting inside Masters on turn four to seemingly prevent a home maximum, and then coming out on top in a ding-dong last lap scrap with Fricke which saw them change positions three times.

You felt Witches were on a roll at that stage and things got even better for them when Thompson neatly re-passed Howarth off turn four in Heat 14 with Kemp hitting more mechanical trouble, leaving the score at 38-46 and the visitors seemingly in full control.

That was dented slightly in the final race where Leicester were on a 4-2 before Sayfutdinov sent Douglas tumbling on the exit of turn four. The re-run saw Doyle briefly split the home combination before Douglas immediately switched back through on lap two to team up with Fricke.

It was at least a positive end for Lions who were honest enough to admit Witches had done the better job on the night, putting the Suffolk side firmly in the box seat.

But nothing is wrapped up yet, as Wolverhampton discovered at home to Swindon in 2017 having won the away leg of the Grand Final by the same scoreline. The big test for Ipswich now is of handling the pressure of expectation and a massive chance to end their 27-year wait for a league title.
